

Benefits of US Airways' Advantage Fares Program to Consumers

	US Airways, Inc.	Multiple Airlines	American Airlines Inc.	United Airlines, Inc.	Delta Air Lines Inc.
All flights
Nonstop	--	--	From $740	--	--
1 stop	From $471	From $686	From $751	From $762	From $762

The screenshot above, for round trip flights leaving on Aug. 13, 2013, and returning Aug. 14, 2013, from Miami to Cincinnati, shows the benefits of US Airways' Advantage Fares program to passengers. A customer who purchased a US Airways one-stop ticket would save $269 compared to American's nonstop service.

	US Airways, Inc.	Jetblue Airways Corporation	AirTran Airways, Inc.	Multiple Airlines	United Airlines, Inc.	Delta Air Lines Inc.	American Airlines Inc.
All flights
Nonstop	--	From $907	--	--	From $1,445	From $1,457	From $1,477
1 stop	From $575	From $1,618	From $909	From $1,006	From $1,331	From $1,467	From $1,467

The screenshot above, for round trip flights departing on Aug. 13, 2013, and returning Aug. 14, 2013, from New York to Houston, demonstrates just how dramatic the savings can be. US Airways' connecting fare is $870 cheaper than the other legacy carriers' nonstop flights, and even beats JetBlue and Airtran by more than $300. Although Southwest does not participate in the standard online travel sites, a cross-check against the Southwest website for travel August 13 and 14 demonstrates that US Airways also beats Southwest's $887 nonstop fare by more than $300.